Canadian Fliers See Tanks Drive Into Battle

By LOUIS HUNTER
SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND (CP) — Canadian fighter pilots, returning from their third sortie of the day over the invasion beachhead, reported a few hours before dusk tonight that Allied land troops were penetrating inland from their beachhead, particularly around Caen.

At Caen, nine miles inland from the sea, the fliers said they had seen fires. The airmen added that they had seen tanks approaching the town from both sides—Germans from the south and Allied tanks from the north.

"It looks as if fierce fighting is going on around there," one flier said.

The airmen, who had been flying since early morning, said they still had not encountered any opposition in the invasion area. A smattering of cloud which appeared at noon cleared and the weather was beautiful this afternoon.

Invasion Drive Aimed at Paris

LONDON (AP) — Swedish correspondents reported from Germany today that the Allies had landed at 12 points between the Orne and Vire Rivers, with the central assault directed at Caen, 10 miles inland and at the base of the Cherbourg peninsula. The Germans themselves called Caen the "centre of gravity" of the attack.

The Stockholm paper Aftonbladet said: "The attack seems directed against the most heavily defended section of the French coast and aimed directly at Paris."

The German radio called it a "grand-style operation" both in area and numbers of troops and admitted Normandy had been penetrated by the airborne troops "in great depth."

The Germans claimed a furious sea battle had developed off Le Havre between Nazi motor torpedo boats and the invasion fleet.

Invasion Prayers On View Street

For those who wish may pray for loved ones or friends serving overseas and taking part in the invasion; a gathering from 12 noon to 12:15 each day, this week, on View Street, between Douglas and Broad Streets, where the Victory Loan campaign was conducted, was announced today.

The service will consist of a short silence and prayers for the fighting men. Prayers will be led by a cleric who lived in London during the blitz.

Chief of Police J. A. McLellan has given permission for the section of street to be used each day.

Secret Weapons Used By Allies In D-Day Drive

LONDON (CP-Reuters) — Many secret weapons were used for the first time by the liberating armies, the Ministry of Supply disclosed tonight.

While not disclosing the types and actual number of these weapons, the ministry said factories had been manufacturing them for many months past under the greatest secrecy. Often workers themselves did not know what they were making.

The weapons, many so vital they were made in small plants at widely-separated plants, were brought together only for final assembly. Workers in these plants were pledged to secrecy—and they kept the trust.

Whole Seine Mouth Area Set Afire

By WES GALLAGHER
SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE (AP) — The initial landings of the Allied forces in northern France today ranged from 6 to 8:25 a.m., B.S.T. (9 p.m. to 11:25 p.m. Monday, P.D.T.) with 4,000 ships and several thousand smaller craft taking the troops in. Earlier parachute and glider forces made deep penetrations. Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery was in command of the assaulting troops.

Warships of both the British and United States navies, including British and U.S. battleships, hurled shells into the coastal defenses which the Germans had been building for four years. The Germans acknowledged this fire was tremendous and that it had set the whole bay of the Seine area afire.

The parachutists and glidermen went in and the Germans said they landed at Caen and made deep penetrations at many points, with at least four British parachute divisions employed besides the Americans and Canadians.

It was disclosed that a number of unannounced feints had taken place in the pre-invasion period, so the Germans would not know when the real blow was coming.

The German air force reacted very slowly, although a high Allied officer said it had probably 1,750 fighters and 500 bombers it had been hoarding to meet the invasion.

The German navy was represented only by a few destroyers and E-boats.

The Paris radio broadcast a report that "a last-minute flash" from the battlefield early tonight announced "a vicious battle is raging north of Rouen between powerful Allied paratroop formations and German anti-invasion forces."

Rouen is 41 miles inland, east of Le Havre.

Badoglio to Form New Government

NAPLES (AP) — Premier Marshal Pietro Badoglio dissolved his Italian government today and was charged by Crown Prince Umberto with forming a new government to include political leaders in liberated Rome.

Allies Gain Near Great Port Of Le Havre

LONDON (AP) — Transocean news agency in a Berlin broadcast today said the Allies had established a 15-mile front from a mile to a half a mile deep between Villers-sur-Mer and Trouville.

This area is about seven miles south of the big port of Le Havre where transatlantic liners docked in prewar days and takes in the beach resort area of Deauville.

By WES GALLAGHER

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE (AP) — Allied forces landed in the Normandy area of northwest France today and have thrust several miles inland against unexpectedly slight German opposition and with losses much smaller than had been anticipated.

The grand assault—scheduled for Monday but postponed until today because of bad weather—found the highly-vaunted German defenses much less formidable in every department than had been feared.

Albino troops who led the assault before daylight on a huge scale suffered "extremely small" losses in the air, headquarters disclosed tonight, even though the great plane fleets extended across 200 miles of sky and used navigation lights to keep formation.

Naval losses for the seaborne forces were described at headquarters as "very, very small," although 4,000 ships and several thousand smaller craft participated in taking the British, Canadian and U.S. troops to France. Nazi opposition in all quarters was less than expected.

Coastal batteries were almost silenced by the guns of the British and Allied fleets, including battleships, and the beachheads were speedily consolidated.

(A dispatch from Ross Munro, Canadian Press war correspondent, dated—with the Canadian forces in France, said two landing-craft flotillas of the Royal Canadian Navy carried a portion of the Canadian assault troops to France and put them down on the beaches in the first wave of attack.)

From Cherbourg To Le Havre

The German radio said the scene of the landings was a 100-mile stretch of coast from Cherbourg to Le Havre, around the bay of the Seine and the north-east shore of the Normandy peninsula.

Prime Minister Churchill, in announcing the successful invasion to the House of Commons at noon—six hours after the first seaborne troops had landed—said the landings were "the first of a series."

Mr. Churchill disclosed that 11,000 Allied planes were available as needed for the battle. The Allied bombers, climaxing 96 hours of steady pounding, lashed German coastal defenses this morning with 10,000 tons of explosives.

Airborne Troops Break All Records

LONDON (CP) — Allied invasion forces have penetrated in some cases several miles inland after an effective landing on a broad front. Prime Minister Churchill informed the House of Commons tonight.

The Prime Minister said in his second invasion report of the day that "the landings along the whole front have been effective and the troops have penetrated in some cases several miles inland."

Mr. Churchill, after visiting Gen. Eisenhower's headquarters with King George, told the House he had been at centres where the latest information was received and could state that "this operation is proceeding in a thoroughly satisfactory manner."

"Many dangers and difficulties which this time last night appeared extremely formidable are behind us," the Prime Minister added. "The passage of the sea has been made with far less loss than we apprehended."

"The resistance of the batteries has been greatly weakened by the bombing by the air force and superior bombardment of our ships quickly reduced their fire to dimensions which did not affect the problem."

NEW RECORDS SET

"The outstanding feature has been the landings of airborne troops on a scale far larger than anything ever seen before," he said. "These landings took place with extremely little loss and with great accuracy. The airborne troops are well established and the landings and follow-ups are all proceeding with very much less loss than we expected."

"There is fighting proceeding at various points and we have captured various bridges which are of importance and which were not blown up. There is even fighting proceeding in the town of Caen inland."

Earlier, he had told the cheering House that the Allied liberating assault was "proceeding according to plan—and what a plan!"

King George Asks Prayer To Fortify Determination

LONDON (CP) — The King tonight called upon his subjects to offer up "earnest and continuous and widespread prayer throughout the present crisis of the liberation of Europe."

Prayer, he said, would fortify the "determination of our sailors, soldiers and airmen who go forth to set captives free."

At this historic moment surely not one of us is too busy, too young or too old to play their part in the nationwide, perchance worldwide, vigil of prayer as the great crusade sets forth," the King said in a BBC broadcast.

"After nearly five years of toil and suffering we must renew that crusading impulse on which we entered the war and met its darkest hour. We and our allies are sure that our fight is against evil and for a world in which goodness and honor may be the foundation of life of men in every land."

"That we may be worthy matched with this new summons of destiny, I desire solemnly to call my people to prayer and dedication."

"We are not unmindful of our shortcomings of the past and present. We shall not ask that God may do our will but that we may be enabled to do the will of God and we dare to believe that God has used our nation and Empire as an instrument for fulfilling his high purpose."

U.S. Navy Blimp Crashes Up-Island

A U.S. navy blimp engaged in aerial reconnaissance over the wreckage of an R.C.A.F. plane on Vancouver Island crashed Monday near the scene of the wreck it was investigating. The 11 men aboard, two R.C.A.F. liaison men and nine Americans, escaped uninjured, Western Air Command announced today.

Officials are investigating the possibility of salvaging the blimp, which is totally deflated. It is believed the craft came too close to the ground and was caught in a draught of air. It lies 20 miles southwest of Nanaimo, near Mount Wimper.

"It was like being gently lowered to earth at the end of an elastic band," one of the airmen aboard the craft said in describing the "crash." Today the 11 men were making their way through the rough bush interior of the island toward the south fork of the Nanaimo River. Meanwhile the big observation casbag hangs limply from the branches of a tall Douglas fir.

'Other Offensives Expected'—Mr. King

OTTAWA — Prime Minister King, in the Commons this afternoon, gave a broad hint other Allied landings on continental Europe may be expected at any minute.

"It is not to be supposed the offensive launched today will not be followed by other offensives in other parts of Europe," he said.

"The fact an Allied landing has taken place on the continent is of itself a great feat."

Allied Forces Push Steadily Beyond Rome

By SID FEDER

NAPLES (AP)—Allied 5th Army forces drove steadily beyond liberated Rome today, some units plunging as much as five miles out from the Tiber River against what was officially termed "only weak resistance."

"The battle to destroy the enemy continues without pause," said a communiqué.

Lt. Gen. Clark's troops have crossed or reached the Tiber all the way from Rome to the sea and enemy divisions still in the flatlands south of the city are in desperate straits.

In the coastal area alone well over 2,000 prisoners apparently will be unable to scramble out of the Allied net because all Tiber bridges from Rome to the sea either have been blown up or captured.

In Rome, however, where 11 crossings remained intact, 5th Army formations poured across in a constant stream to chase the Germans fleeing northward.

Canadian Navy Lands Canadians In First Wave

By ROSS MUNRO

WITH THE CANADIAN FORCES IN FRANCE (CP)—Two landing-craft flotillas of the Royal Canadian Navy carried a portion of the Canadian assault troops to France and put them down on the beaches in the first wave of attack.

A reserve formation which went in on the heels of the assault waves was taken to France entirely by Canadian craft and crews, and other follow-up troops were also carried by R.C.N. craft.

200-FOOT VESSELS

This was the biggest task ever undertaken by the Canadian naval landing-craft flotillas. The craft they used were what is officially designated as Landing Craft Infantry. They are large, about 200 feet long, and look like a miniature destroyer. They carry about 200 soldiers. They nose up on the beach and long ramps shoot up on either side.

Around the sharp bow the infantry goes to the beach along these ramps.

In addition to the LCI large, a Canadian Navy Landing Ship Infantry, a much larger craft of about 10,000 tons, also shared in this huge operation.

It went to within several miles of the coast of France and then the small landing craft assault 50-foot craft were lowered from it and carried the infantry in the rest of the way.

'I Have Complete Confidence' Crerar Tells Troops In France

By ROSS MUNRO

(Copyright 1944 by the Canadian Press)

WITH THE CANADIAN ARMY IN FRANCE (CP)—Lt. Gen. H. D. G. Crerar, C.B., D.S.O., the Canadian army commander, sent this personal message to Canadian assault forces on the eve of embarkation for the invasion of continental Europe:

"It is impossible for me to speak to each one of you, but by means of this personal message, amend what he described as a national disgrace in regard to leave for B.C. service personnel.

Barr made forceful plea to cover Victoria men and women in active service units serving on eastern coast. They were not, he said, getting fair treatment in regard to leave as the "zombies" with 14 days leave and no traveling time allowed. Victorians serving in eastern Canada were lucky if they could get three days at home instead of the 14 days rest they badly needed.

I want all ranks of the Canadian army to know what is in my mind, as the hour approaches when we go forward into battle. "I have complete confidence in our ability to meet the tests which lie ahead. We are excellently trained and equipped. The quality of both the senior and junior leadership is of the highest. As Canadians, we inherit military characteristics which were feared by the enemy in the last Great War. They will be still more feared before this war terminates."

This affected mainly R.C.A.F. men and W.D.'s. Station O.C.'s had canceled this because they said they could not spare the men and women. "How can we expect high morale when these young men and women do not get that leave which is essential to morale. Today we have zombies in Victoria getting leave which those in the active service are being refused. Some of the zombies not entitled to traveling time are getting leave for as long as 23 days," says Barr.

$10,300,000 Added In 15-Year Period To Banks' Reserves

OTTAWA (CP)—In 15 years, from 1929 to 1943, Canadian banks added a total of $10,300,000 to their general contingency inner reserves, Finance Minister Ilsley told the House of Commons banking committee today.

This, he said, was one-half of 1 per cent of the increases in their assets.

In a long prepared statement the minister declined to disclose the actual amount of the inner reserves of each bank or the amount held by all the banks together.

He said after a careful review he had found the inner reserves of at least seven banks were clearly not excessive, but that "in the case of two or three banks the allocations made at the end of 1943 may have represented an undue degree of conservatism and may have brought the total reserves of these banks to a level somewhat higher than we, in the light of today's conditions and considering only the taxation aspect, could justify as a reasonable safeguard against the probable contingencies of the future."

In practice the inner reserves were set up by the banks going over their loans and investments each year and making specific provision for those known to be bad or doubtful. In addition they knew others would turn out to be bad.

To the extent that the inner reserves became larger than the amount necessary, the minister of finance had the responsibility of seeing that the excess provision for loss became subject to tax.

Mr. Ilsley said the two or three banks whose additions to reserves at the end of 1943 he found to be excessive did not agree. They considered the additions warranted by their experience.

Seas Delay Search

PORT STANLEY, Ont. (CP)—Rough water in Lake Erie today prevented resumption of the search for the bodies of 14 persons missing and believed drowned in the capsizing Sunday of the cabin cruiser Olga. Bodies of three others were recovered immediately after the accident. The other 13 passengers were rescued.

Capt. F. S. Slocumbe and W. L. Mackenzie of the Transport Department arrived here and examined the 33-foot boat which partly overturned off this port. The water is 5 to 30 feet deep where the accident occurred.

CHEMUNUS (CP)—Between 300 and 400 workers at Chemunus Lumber Co. here will give a day's pay to the Red Cross to mark invasion day.

"We feel that now the invasion is started, the Red Cross will need all the help it can get and more," a union spokesman said today.

Canadian, British Troops Quickly Ashore With Armor In France

By LOUIS HUNTER

AT AN R.C.A.F. STATION, SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND

(CP)—The great Allied assault on the northern French coast appeared to be going well by noon today as Canadian fliers, returning from sorties over the beachhead, said Canadian and British troops seemed well ashore with lots of armor visible on the beaches.

As the day wore on, fliers encountered bits of cloud over the beachhead area, but the enemy, roughly three hours after the landings had started, still was not offering fighter opposition in the air.

One pilot said: "There were lots of ships. Boats were churning about all over the place. The troops on shore seemed to be making progress and everything seemed all right on the beaches as far as you could tell from the air."

"There were bags of fighters around the continuous air cover." Three hours after the Allied invasion started, fighter pilots brought back reports that the situation on the beach seemed "well organized."

"This was the second Canadian fighter patrol of the day. The Canadian wing was led by Wing Cmdr. George Keefer of Charlottetown."

"We spent about an hour over the beach," he said. "There's lots of Allied aircraft there. Things on the beach seem well organized. There is some shelling going on. There was a hell of a lot of armored stuff on the beach that looked like tanks. I've never seen so many ships in all my life."

See Landing Craft Push Up On Beaches

The fliers said they could see landing craft nosing into the beaches as they flew a regular shuttle service to protect the ground forces from air attacks which, during the first hours of the invasion at least, never materialized.

The Canadian fliers reported great barrages were thrown out by powerful German coastal batteries, but said jubilantly they could see "our little men" reach the beach successfully.

The first Canadian fliers said they spent an hour over the beaches between Le Havre and Cherbourg peninsula and returned without loss. There was no opposition from enemy air.

craft and only slight flak was encountered.

The Canadian fighters did not even fire their guns. But with them were some 2,200 heavy and medium bombers which plastered the invasion coast with an estimated 1,200 tons of bombs.

On the second Canadian fighter patrol—as on the first—there was no fighter opposition encountered.

There was "lots of shooting going on" at the beachhead when ships started disgorging invasion troops, said returning Canadian pilots.

1,000 Naval Craft Share in Landings

The heavy and medium bombers dropped their loads just before an estimated 1,000 naval ships of all types hit the beach to land the invasion troops.

Lack of German air opposition left the impression the Luftwaffe is being saved until the enemy can mount his inevitable counter-attack.

First to return from the raid over the beaches of France was the City of Oshawa Squadron, with Sqdn. Ldr. Freddy Green of Toronto first home. Two other Canadian squadrons, also from this station, were commanded by Group Capt. W. R. MacBrien of Ottawa, who personally led the first sortie. In sections with him were Wing Cmdr. Lloyd Chaburn of Aurora, Ont.; Sqdn. Ldr. R. A. Buckham of Vancouver, and Sqdn. Ldr. Walter Conrad of Richmond, Ont.

Chaburn said: "There were countless ships in the sea. The flak was light. I didn't see any Huns in the air."

As pilots who had breakfasted prepared for more sorties during the day, and as I telephoned this story to the London office of the Canadian Press, there were more planes heading out to France.

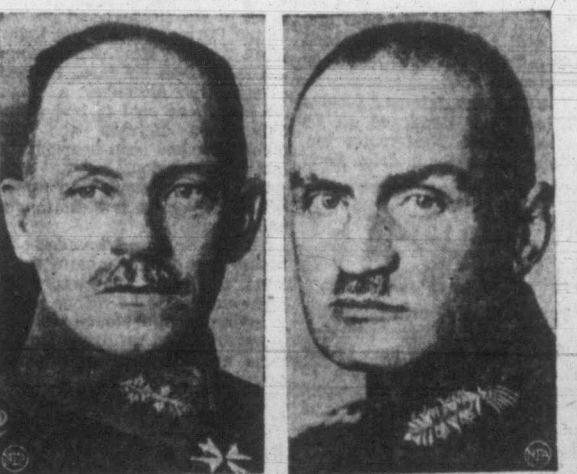

There is a constant stream of them.

Nazi Defenders of Europe

A veteran of the Russian campaign and Hitler's No. 1 tank specialist are reported in command of two of the German armies along the Atlantic coast of Europe, facing the Allied invasion forces. Col. Gen. Hasse, left, heads forces in the northern sector of the so-called Atlantic Wall, while Col. Gen. Johannes Blaskowitz, right, panzer specialist who led a Nazi army in invasion of Poland and sparked the break-through at Sedan that led to the fall of France, is in command behind the southern part of French invasion coast.

Troops Prayer, Sang On Invasion Ships

WITH THE CANADIAN INVASION FORCES (CP)—Religious services were held for Canadian troops aboard practically all the invasion ships a few hours before the force went ashore to storm the beaches of the French coast.

For these services the Canadian chaplain services issued a little booklet to the units to help commanders conduct these services. The booklet is headed by a sentence from John Bunyan's "Pilgrim's Hymn"—"He who would be valiant let him follow the Master who goes forth conquering and to conquer always."

The service includes a hymn, "Holy, Holy, Holy," and the 23rd Psalm, as well as several short prayers and a suggested line of Bible readings.

A note on the booklet says: "It is hopefully suggested that either the skipper or commander using this card will say prayers at some not too inconvenient time prior to 'touch down.'"

Paratroops Cascaded From Moonlit Sky To Hit Nazi Vitals

By HOWARD COWAN
WITH U.S. PARACHUTE TROOPS (AP)—U.S. paratroopers—studded with battle-hardened veterans of the Sicilian and Italian campaigns—landed behind Hitler's "Atlantic Wall" today to help plant the first blow of the long-awaited western front squarely in the enemy's vitals.

The Allies' toughest, wiriest men of war cascaded from the moonlit sky in an awe-some operation.

Twin-engine C-47s—sisters of U.S. standard airline flagships—bore the human cargo across the sky, simultaneously towing troop-laden CG4A gliders—to merge in a single sledgehammer blow paving the way for frontal assault forces.

Armed with weapons from the most primitive to the most modern, the paratroopers' mission was to disrupt and demoralize the Germans' communications inside the Nazis' own lines.

There was no immediate indication that their dynamite and steel and well-aimed fire were not succeeding in the execution of plans rehearsed for months in preparation for the liberation of occupied Europe.

The steel-helmeted, ankle-booted warriors wore a red, white and blue U.S. flag insignia on the sleeve and camouflaged green-spotted battle dress.

Rome Liberation Glorious Event, Says Churchill

LONDON (CP)—Liberation of Rome, Prime Minister Churchill told the Commons today, "is a memorable and glorious event which rewards the intense fights of the last five months in Italy—the original landings made on Jan. 22 at Anzio have in the end borne good fruit."

"It would be futile to attempt to estimate our final gains at the present time. It is our duty, however, to pay the warmest tribute of gratitude and admiration to Gen. Alexander for the skill with which he has saddled this army of so many different states and nations, and for the tenacity and fortitude with which he sustained long periods when success was denied."

"In Gen. Clark of the U.S. Army he has found a leader, a fighting leader of the highest order with the qualities that all the Allied troops have shown themselves, in noble and unjealous rivalry..."

Greatest Preparations Reach Climax In Landings

Allied Movement From Britain Ends Unparalleled Suspense

History's Greatest Aerial Offensive

Shaded and unshaded areas show the comparison between 550 planes, the heaviest force the Nazis ever sent against Britain, and the 7,600 planes the Allies sent against them in the final pre-invasion raid.

Ross Munro, Canadian Press war correspondent, who has lived with Canadian troops since 1940 is with them today on the shores of continental Europe. At the last minute he wrote a number of stories highlighting final moves before the decisive push-off. This is one.

By ROSS MUNRO
WITH THE CANADIAN ARMY INVASION FORCES (CP)—Week by week until D-Day, Allied invasion preparations were shaped on a staggering scale against a backdrop of suspense and anticipation on the part of forces and civilians in Britain and jittery German nerves.

Never before had a military operation been so heralded by both sides as this second front.

The enemy, as the time grew closer, frantically flew kites of rumors and speculation, but London, Washington and Ottawa told nothing of importance.

TENSION OF WAITING

Still the prelude to the greatest military drama of all time was the nerve-racking time for those who were crossing the Channel and those who were at the giant bases. The tension of waiting was just as tough on the civilian in Britain for there were few families who didn't send someone with the invading troops.

Since the start of the year we who had been in Britain and with the army formations have been able to see the steps forward in the invasion plan.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, commander of the Allied invasion armies, and Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery, commander of the British invasion armies, came back from the Mediterranean and their staffs began to take shape.

BIG HEADQUARTERS

"Cossack"—Chiefs of Staff, Supreme Allied Command—was the first main headquarters for second front planning. By February it was secondary. Supreme Headquarters, Allied Expeditionary Force, focal point for invasion preparations. In mid-March, Lt. Gen. H. D. G. Crerar returned to London from Italy to take command of the Canadian army. Troops were beginning to concentrate then.

The coast again became a practice zone for combined operations and a dozen times or more large fleets of landing craft, escorted by Royal Navy fighting ships, sailed out for a day or two at a time and concluded the sorties by landing British, U.S. or Canadian troops on English beaches.

Never before had Britain so many fighting men within her borders. A standing joke was: "If they bring one more soldier to Britain this island is going to sink."

Behind this veneer of silence immense events took place. In early April all army, navy and air force leaves were canceled indefinitely. Nothing about this was announced. Camps were jammed with all their men and service women.

No Liquor Change Ottawa Decides

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government declined to remove its wartime restrictions on the release of wine and liquor for sale when requested to do so by Premier George Drew of Ontario, it was disclosed in the Commons.

Resources Minister Crerar tabled an exchange of correspondence between the Ontario Premier and Prime Minister Mackenzie King which took place just before the Ontario government cut the monthly liquor ration from 26 to 13 ounces.

The correspondence was made public after Revenue Minister Gibson told the House there was no discrimination in the treatment of Ontario and Quebec in the matter of liquor supplies.

He also said the restrictions were not imposed because of a shortage in supply but "to assure a total war effort." The restrictions advanced when the restrictions were imposed were still valid and "as the hour of our greatest trial approaches they possess added significance."

On May 29 Mr. King gave a definite answer by letter saying the cabinet had considered the request.

He concluded: "The government has decided that it would not be justified at this time in making any change in its wartime policy."

Canadian Assault Commander Supremely Confident of Success

By ROSS MUNRO
WITH THE CANADIAN INVASION FORCES (CP)—On the eve of the invasion, the Canadian commander of the Canadian assault operation looked like a man on a holiday. He was serenely confident and perfectly at ease. He reflected the spirit of his troops.

I met him in his office ashore just before we embarked and he talked to me for a half hour. All the work had been done by then. Nothing could be added or taken away from the plan.

The general sat at his desk with only a pad and his personal diary before him. His aide told me he was quite relaxed and had been reading detective stories for the past few days, taking it easy.

"We have been training hard for this very task for nearly a year," the general said. "We started first with companies and worked up to brigades and divisions, always training in assault from the sea with artillery support."

"Our task has been rehearsed many, many times. Every officer and man knows his specific job. As for the plan, I think the highest compliment paid it is that the men like it. I have been told the soldiers themselves think it is sound."

D-Day, H-Hour Set Months Ahead After Long Correlation of Data

By WES GALLAGHER
SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, Allied Expeditionary Force (AP)—In this military, Shangri-la, cleverly hidden from snooping German spy planes, the war's greatest secret was hatched early this year.

Adolf Hitler would have squandered the lives of 10 divisions and much of his wealth to have learned that secret, even up to a few hours ago.

But today he was given it "free of charge." And it may cost him his life and powers eventually. The secret naturally was "D-Day and H-Hour."

D-Day was military terminology for the day of the great Allied attack. H-Hour was the exact hour British, Canadian and U.S. soldiers were expected to set foot on the soil of western Europe.

The complications of modern amphibious warfare made it necessary that these two factors be known months in advance.

The dates were set for the arrival of troops, guns and tanks; for air attacks on specific objectives; for establishing bases, and for the capture of key ports.

Dates are not figures on the calendar. They are scheduled in terminology like this: D-plus-five, or D-minus-six. The first means five days after the troops land. The second means six days before the day of attack.

LIVES DEPENDENT ON CHOICE
Hundreds of thousands of lives depended on a successful D-Day choice. And every aid of military science hiding under a cloak of camouflage here was brought forth to aid the supreme commander in his difficult choice.

British and U.S. weather experts studied reports for the last quarter of a century over every foot of coast. They figured the exact hours of darkness and light.

Canadian, British and U.S. air force chiefs were given specified objectives and estimated how long it was going to take to beat the German air force to a pulp.

Then these men walked down the long corridors, heavily guarded by military police, and presented their invasion data to Gen. Eisenhower.

Allied supply chiefs estimated how many guns and tanks were required and by what date they could be assembled at designated points. Navy men made their estimates.

CORRELATE FRONTS
In Moscow, the Russians studied their problems and how best to correlate operations on both east and west fronts. In the Mediterranean the Allied staff there sent in this data.

With all this before him, the supreme commander spent long hours in his office selecting and rejecting—finally hitting on one date. It probably didn't coincide exactly with any submitted, but was the best possible compromise.

Eisenhower is a "lucky" general. He picked D-Day for the African invasion 60 days ahead of time, with the scientific odds nine-to-one against him that French Morocco's iron coast would be swept by tides and waves that would make landings impossible except for three days of the month. But D-Day found the waters fairly calm.

He picked the Sicily invasion date more than a month in advance and except for a high wind early in the night the time was almost perfect. The same happened at Salerno.

Canadian H.Q. Called One of Best In All Allied Forces

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE CANADIAN ARMY INVASION TROOPS (CP)—For more than two years headquarters of the 1st Canadian Army has been preparing to direct the Canadian troops in the European invasion.

From March 6, 1942, when headquarters were first established it has been gradually built up, broadened and finally completely staffed. Hundreds of officers and men make up this headquarters, considered one of the best trained in the Allied forces.

Senior officer is Lt. Gen. H. D. G. Crerar, army commander, and under him the Chief of Staff, a brilliant, youthful brigadier who is a permanent force soldier. The chief of staff formerly held the title "brigadier general staff," but it was altered last spring.

Stemming down from Gen. Crerar and the chief of staff are three main staff branches in the headquarters.

First there is the general staff, which includes operations, intelligence, air and staff duties branches. These branches are responsible with the commander for fighting the battles. They get the machinery of the corps and divisions rolling into the fight once the plan is decided on.

ADMINISTRATIVE GROUP

The second main branch is administrative and a brigadier, a prominent Montreal businessman before the war, heads this vital branch.

The third main branch at army headquarters handles the planning. Officers of this section did the basic planning for the Canadian share in the invasion.

The Paris radio today broadcast an appeal by Marshal Petain to Frenchmen to refrain from actions "which would call down upon you tragic reprisals."

"France has become a battlefield," said the aged Vichy chief. "The circumstances of battle may compel the German army to take special measures in the battle area. Accept this necessity."

He called on officials, railwaymen and workers to remain at their posts—where they would serve the German military machine—"in order to keep the life of the nation and in order to carry out your tasks."

"Do not listen to outside voices calling on you not to listen to our decrees," he said.

The marshal appeared to be speaking under great emotional stress. The broadcast was heard by Reuters news agency.

German coastal gunfire was described as sporadic.

In general, Allied losses have been much less than expected.

Between Monday midnight and 8 a.m. today Allied aircraft flew 7,500 sorties and dropped 10,000 tons of bombs on attacked areas in Normandy.

Losses of aircraft carrying airborne troops were extremely small although the air-borne attack was on a very large scale, it was said.

In the face of the powerful Allied attack the German air force flew only 50 sorties up to about noon, but Allied reaction warned that a powerful reaction by the German air force was expected soon.

An order of the day by Reichsmarshal Hermann Goering was cited in which the air force chief was quoted as declaring "the invasion must be beaten off even if the Luftwaffe perishes."

600 Navy Guns Blast Coastline

By PIERRE HUSS

ABOARD A BRITISH WARSHIP (CP)—Six hundred naval guns, opening fire on the French coastal stretch west of Le Havre, laid down a mighty barrage of 2,000 tons of shells each 10 minutes beginning at 5.15 a.m. today as the Allied invasion of Europe began.

Under supreme command of Admiral Sir Bertram Ramsay, Allied naval commander, two great naval assault forces participated. The Eastern Task Force, comprising mostly British and Canadian vessels, was under Rear-Admiral Sir Philip Vian.

The Western Task Force, consisting mainly of U.S. warships, was under command of Rear-Admiral Alan Kirk, U.S.N.

Apparently taken by surprise, the Germans replied from under a smoke screen laid down by our aircraft to hide us.

'Great Crusade,' Says Eisenhower

LONDON (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower issued the following order of the day to his invasion troops today:

Soldiers, sailors and airmen of the Allied expeditionary force: You are about to embark on a great crusade. The eyes of the world are upon you and the hopes and prayers of all liberty-loving peoples go with you.

In company with our brave allies and brothers-in-arms on other fronts you will bring about the destruction of the German war machine, elimination of Nazi tyranny over the oppressed peoples of Europe, and security for ourselves in a free world.

Your task will not be an easy one. Your enemy is well trained, well equipped and battle-hardened. He will fight savagely. But in this year of 1944 much has happened since the Nazi triumphs of 1940 and 1941.

The United Nations have inflicted upon the Germans great defeats in open battle, man to man. Our air offensive has seriously reduced their strength in the air and their capacity to wage war on the ground, our home fronts have given us overwhelming superiority in weapons and munitions of war, and have placed at our disposal great reserves of trained fighting men. The tide has turned and free men of the world are marching together to victory.

I have full confidence in your courage, devotion to duty and skill in battle. We will accept nothing less than full victory. Good luck, and let us all beseech the blessing of Almighty God upon this great and noble undertaking.

False Alarmer Feeling Better

LONDON (AP)—Joan Ellis, the timid, blond 22-year-old girl who inadvertently sent the flash which caused the erroneous Associated Press announcement Saturday of Allied landings in France, says she will be back in the office in a few days and hoped to be able to do a good job for the A.P.

"Everybody in the A.P. has been so nice and considerate," Miss Ellis said at her home, where she is recuperating from nervous tension. "I expect to come back to work in spite of the strain of having made such an error that caused so much trouble."

"I am resting well and feel much better. Not many people are bothering me. My first thought of the future was to get away from newspaper offices and try something quieter. But now I expect to return to help the staff with the big story."

In a special dispatch to the International News Service from Kingsbury Smith, London correspondent, Joan Ellis was quoted as saying:

"Please tell the American people how sorry I am for that false alarm. Ask them please to forgive me. I didn't mean to do it."

BEGINNING OF THE END

DUNKIRK IN REVERSE WAS A FITTING exclamation as the tree world heralded "D" Day in the small hours of this morning. It is four years and two days since the last Allied troops left that important French coast town in what Mr. Churchill described to the House of Commons as "a miracle of deliverance, achieved by valor, by perseverance, by perfect discipline, by faultless service, by resource, by skill, and by unconquerable fidelity." More than 335,000 men, British and French, were brought out of the jaws of death and shame to safety—and to the tasks which lie immediately ahead. But, in a memorable editorial of that day, the New York Times viewed the scene and its implications from afar with prophetic vision and said in part:

"So long as the English tongue survives, the word Dunkirk will be spoken with reverence. For in that harbor, in such a hell as never blazed on earth before, at the end of a lost battle, the rage and blizzards that have hidden the soul of democracy fell away. There, beaten but unconquered, in shining splendor, she faced the enemy. . . . This shining thing in the souls of free men Hitler cannot command, or attain, or conquer. He has crushed it, where he could, from German hearts. It is the great tradition of democracy. It is the future. IT IS VICTORY."

Those were courageous words to utter in the light of the ghastly circumstances which engulfed and threatened our civilization. What happened in the following months of that year justified the prophesy of the great New York daily. Britain and Britons came through "their finest hour" with new hope for the future, new belief in the justness of their cause, and a new resolve to beat the German braggart to his knees. Much agony of soul assailed a sorely pressed people. Disappointment after disappointment demanded the maximum of a nation's fortitude. It was for them. British peoples stood alone for many months. Their first reward was the defeat of the much-vaunted Luftwaffe. And the world remembers, and will always remember, Mr. Churchill's epic phrase: "Never in the field of human conflict was so much owed by so many to so few." That victory was the first shaft of light in the darkness; it gave a dim outline of the future; it revealed to the world the steadfastness of the British people and their great resolve. The rest, of course, is down on history's record.

Not until the gallant men of Canada landed on the continental coastline at Dieppe nearly two years ago, however, did the world understand the nature of the task that would eventually confront the great company of nations which by then had banded together in an implacable determination to remove tyranny from the face of the earth. What happened on that August day in 1942 the people of this country know only too well; but the spirits of those Canadians who never returned from that exploratory venture into the jaws of the enemy's defenses have waited long and patiently for the final assault which began today.

Of the actual progress of the campaign of liberation it is not possible to say much as this is written. We nevertheless have the assurances of the British Prime Minister that the initial stages of the greatest and most hazardous military undertaking of all time have gone according to plan—"and what a plan!" Mr. Churchill exclaimed to the House of Commons. The peoples of all the Allied nations have seen for themselves, through the medium of the newspapers and the magazines, the enormity of the preparations which have gone on unceasingly in the British Isles ever since Dieppe. From this country and the United States men and machines of every conceivable kind have piled up to such an extent that one has often wondered how Britain had found space to accommodate them. This is the comforting fact that will help to console us in those moments ahead when the best-laid plans may have to bow to the impact of those inescapable imponderables of war which no human imagination can anticipate.

On this great day in the world's history, therefore, it behooves every one of us to be patient—patient when progress is slow and costly in human lives, patient when circumstances develop which we do not understand, patient with decisions that the unpredictable events of the next few weeks or months may demand. General Eisenhower and his able commanders have the confidence of those in authority—the men who are responsible for, as we fondly hope it is, this final battle with the forces of darkness in Europe. Our prayers must go out to our leaders and the gallant men who are consecrating their all to victory.

MILLER FREEMAN'S MISSION

ALTHOUGH IT ADMITS EDITORIALLY that it is not its function to get into any West-East controversy as it affects the United States regionally, the American edition of the Shanghai Evening Post and Mercury, an important weekly published in New York, gives prominent place in its current issue to the hard work which for weeks past Mr. Miller Freeman, Seattle editor and owner of the numerous journals which bear his name, has been putting in the eastern metropolis. The Post and Mercury takes for its text an article in the May issue of the Atlantic magazine, dealing with what it calls the coming battle of "West Coast Versus East," by Mr. A. G. Mezzerik, who begins his thesis with a published letter from Washington State's Governor Arthur B. Langlie. Here is part of the extract:

"Our colonial status as shippers of fruit, timber and other raw materials to the industrial east will be overcome by facilities set up within our states to produce for vast new markets across the Pacific." Politely put, comments Mr. Mezzerik; actually, "Westerners feel anything but polite about the way they have been treated; and the opposite of acquiescent about putting up with it. They know that, by a variety of controls, the east has successfully kept them, along with the south, in the role of financial serfs all these years." And they see in the coming industrialization of Asia their opportunity—as Mr. Mezzerik puts it, "they smile, point to Asia on the map, and say, 'That's our market. We're elected.'"

There is no attempt on the part of the Post and Mercury to boil down the whole of Mr. Mezzerik's argument, particularly such points as "the way the eastern United States has throttled western enterprise by such devices as too high prices for steel and inequitable freight rates, plus patent pools." But the following from the article itself bears consideration, not only because of the historic economic lessons it should recall to us, but also because the whole trend of the Atlantic magazine article has a direct significance for British Columbia's future economy. Says Mr. Mezzerik:

"The west is playing for a new empire—not only to supply the needs of its own 5,500,000 people with manufactured articles, but, utilizing Alaska and in alliance with the undeveloped Canadian Northwest, to become self-sufficient for almost all its raw materials. Then boldly it expects to ship finished products through the Panama Canal to undersell the east in the south and southwest, and finally to hit the jack pot—the domination of the world's greatest market, Asia. It will be a breath-taking fight that may change the pattern of our economy."

"Breath-taking" is the right word. But does it really exaggerate the basic hope of the Pacific Northwest Trade Association, in whose activities the Victoria Chamber of Commerce and the Vancouver Board of Trade are taking an active part? We do not think so. And not for many a day has this province had a more ardent advocate of a better deal from the east to the west than the Seattle publisher who does not recognize the 49th parallel when he is talking and writing of the aspirations of the whole of the Pacific slope. More power to Mr. Miller Freeman's elbow as he prosecutes his campaign in New York and Washington. We have seen him in action on the spot and know something of the impression he is creating there.

NOW THEY KNOW

THOSE WRITERS OF LETTERS TO the editor of this and other newspapers who have pontificated about Mr. Churchill's recently alleged efforts to postpone or call off altogether the invasion of continental Europe were treated generally with the disdain they deserved. It never seemed to occur to them that the operations which began in the small hours of this morning required not only weeks but months of the most intensive preparation ever devised by the minds of men before they could be launched with any prospect of success. Nevertheless, and in spite of the fact that the pages of the history of this war already had recorded in meticulous detail the arrangements which preceded the landings of Allied soldiers in north Africa a year ago last November, they remained in their ivory towers and presumed to be the only people on earth who really were fighting Fascism, and all it stood for—of course, by remote control. Well, they should now understand the meaning of all that pictorial proof of the preparations for "D" Day which the newspapers of the free world have been carrying for weeks and months past.

CANADA AS AN EXAMPLE

ENLIGHTENED VIEWS ON INTERNATIONAL trade, which give promise of better conditions after the war, were expressed at the first conference, just concluded in New York, of the Inter-American Development Commissions, comprising 21 American republics, including the United States. Canada has been invited to join and form a participating commission.

Mr. Donald Nelson, chairman of the U.S. War Production Board, pointed to Canada to support his thesis in favor of Latin American industrialization. At one time, he said, many Americans feared that the industrialization of Canada would hurt their own industries. Today, however, they can plainly see that as Canada's industries grew, so did the demand for goods among her people, their ability to pay, and the volume of their trade with the United States.

To business men it is becoming ever clearer that the best method to promote a sustained and healthy expansion of foreign trade is to aid undeveloped regions to build up sound industries of their own. With nations, as with communities, we are learning that when we help other peoples to develop, we have them as better customers. We are awakening to the fact that trade must be mutually profitable to buyer and seller alike—and that imports are an indispensable method of receiving payment for our exports.

TOWARD CHINESE UNITY

AN AGREEMENT COMING OUT OF THE conference between Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek and Lin Tso-han, the Communist leader, could mean much in the war against Japan. This bitter and long-standing difference has immobilized two fighting forces that are badly needed—the Communists themselves and the "cordon sanitaire" of Chinese Nationalist troops around Communist-occupied territory.

Unity in China, in France, Poland, Yugoslavia and Greece, has been delayed to the detriment of the United Nations' effort. A settling of China's civil dispute, if only for the duration, would strike a heavy psychological as well as physical blow.

WILD ROSE TIME

NOW, AFTER THE explosive green smell of spring's first succulence, a subtler perfume pervades the air of Canada. The wild rose is in bloom. I suppose there are wild roses in other countries, but in some curious fashion it seems to be the special property of Canada, the emblem of the dawning Canadian summer after the cruel Canadian winter, and its frail odor carries with it the boyhood memories of every Canadian.

No flower is so pungent with nostalgia. The first scent of it, wafted up unexpectedly some June evening, is full of old delights and yet an intolerable sense of loss for the days that are no more. Our youth, or the best part of it, the spring and summer and the days of dreams, were lived in that matchless brief smell. The first wild flowers we gathered were those modest pink blooms from the hedgerow and, having known the winter of this country, we loved them as others could not love them. And our first falling in love was in wild rose time.

THE WILD ROSE is not a temperamental or a choosy flower. It asks no special moisture like the shy dwellers of the bog. It needs no special drainage like the rock plants of the mountains which city people grow only with cunning artifice and special mixture of soil and gravel. It needs no pruning, no fertilizing and any soil is good enough for this natural democrat.

You will find it on our rocky seacoasts, or in the valleys of the Rockies, or on the plains, or beside the Great Lakes. Let man strip and scar the earth to make a road, and level every living thing in his stride, yet the wild rose will suddenly appear in his footsteps and presently beside the roads hangs the wild rose scent. Let man strew the empty lot of the city with rubbish and garbage, yet within a year or two the wild rose has taken over, covered the corruption and perfumed the surrounding air. Along the fence-lines where the plow will not reach, on the spot of useless land where the grain will not grow, by the corner of the old barn, over the foundations of the fallen house—in every nook and cranny which man neglects—there will be found this brave little flower, whose fragile look belies its fierce inward energy.

Besides its perfume all the airs and graces of your cultivated roses are as mere cheap perfume from the five-and-ten-cent store. As the collectors breed their new varieties by cross-pollination, selection, budding, grafting and other bestial perversions, the perfume of the rose dies, so that the highest-bred are odorless, flushed and painted harlots of the garden. But nothing diminishes the touches, the virginity of the wilding, nothing stales its perfume.

THE PAMPERED and illegitimate strains must be fertilized with chemical, must be pruned and sprayed and protected against caterpillars, aphids, black spot and a thousand other artificial diseases, so that the rose grower is a slave to his beauties, like the bankrupt owner of a seraglio. Moreover, as new varieties are bred, as new names appear on the catalogues, as the fashion changes, the fancier must grasp after every addition, is envious of his neighbor's collection and miserable when one of his own choice specimens dies from the weakness of its synthetic origin.

But of all this art, this pomp and display, the wild rose is innocent. No one prunes it, no one sprays it, no one fertilizes it, no one tries to improve it. It only asks to be left alone and is careless whether you even pause by a country roadside in your walk to lean over and sniff its incomparable flavor. Yet it is the foundation of all roses. To its stout briar stalk all the tame varieties are grafted; and even after its little season of bloom, when it fills the air with scent as the birds fill it with song, the wild rose still presents us with the lively treasures of winter, the red seed-pods, the hips which hang above the snow.

Were it rare and difficult to grow all gardens would contain it, all gardeners would lavish care, money, fertilizer and insect spray upon it and thousands of botanists would be engaged in an attempt to make our present fancy roses resemble it. But as it grows free and wild it is unnoticed, except when someone pauses for a moment in the twilight, sniffs the air and suddenly remembers his boyhood, the sweet ecstasy of it and the cruel wastage of his life.

"Lord, what a change within us one short hour

Quebec is putting forward the suggestion of old age pensions at 65. There is still some distance to go, however, to catch up with the active movement in the United Kingdom for spinsters' pensions at 50. That demand represents really progressive thinking.

THE KING MEETS A GLADSTONE

From Montreal Gazette
On his recent visit to the Home fleet, the King spoke to a tall fair-haired seaman who was an officer candidate. "My great-grandfather used to see a lot of your great-grandfather," said the King. "Meeting you here is history, and I wonder what they would think of it?" The young seaman was Erskine William Gladstone, great-grandson of the celebrated Victorian statesman.

WITH MAKESHIFT CLEANERS

Toothpastes, tooth powders and household cleansers are not intended for dental plates. Many of these "makeshifts" are so abrasive they may ruin costly dentures.

PLAY SAFE... USE POLIDENT

Dental plate materials are softer and more easily worn down than natural teeth. Continued use of "makeshift" cleansers may wear down the important "fitting ridges" of the plate. In addition, these "makeshifts" may scratch the polished surfaces, actually causing film and stains to collect faster, cling tighter.

Soaking plates and bridges regularly in Polident dissolves ugly stain and cloudy film that collect daily, cleans those hard-to-reach corners and crevices without the dangers of brushing; maintains their original, natural appearance. Polident is recommended by many leading dentists and approved by leading makers of modern denture materials.

BEWARE OF "DENTURE BREATH"

Polident quickly dissolves daily accumulations of film and stain; leaves plates odor-free and sweet. Millions' tall it is a blessing.

DO THIS EVERY DAY

Add a capful of POLIDENT to ½ glass of water. Stir briefly. Place plate or bridge in this solution for 15 minutes, or longer if convenient. Rinse—it's ready to use.

Dorothy Dix

Dear Miss Dix: If any man thinks he has trouble, he should have to wait on customers with all their red, blue, green, brown, spare, sugar and kerosene stamps, then have to deal with the wolverines who come in with the express purpose of making passes at me. When I go home I have nightmares in which I see all of these ration stamps and wolverines and it is about driving me crazy. Please tell me what to do. DAVID.

Answer: Well, David, I agree with you that the ration stamps take most of the pleasure out of life for all of us, and it must be worse for a lad who is such a hot shot among the ladies. But I don't know what course to recommend unless it is to make yourself less fascinating. Or maybe a mask would help.

DISHWASHING EFFICIENCY GUARDS FAMILY HEALTH

By MARY BEARD, Director, Nursing Service, Red Cross

Without attempting to glamorize the task of washing dishes, I want to point out that there is a technique to me observed that makes the chore less obnoxious and at the same time safeguards the health of the family.

It would be interesting of someone could make a study of how many times a sore throat or a cold is passed from one member of the family to another as a result of carelessly washed dishes. Perhaps we would then recognize dishwashing as a skill and have more respect for it.

DON'T LET FOOD STAND

It will have time and energy, if you will work out a careful dishwashing routine and follow it until it becomes a fixed habit. Don't procrastinate with the dishwashing job. As soon as the meal is finished, put away all food. Remove the dishes from the table and clean grease and scraps from them with a scraper or piece of paper. Arrange the dishes in convenient piles on the left side of the dishpan (if you are right-handed) and place the draining rack on the right side of the pan. Make a good hot soapsuds in the dishpan, and use a dish mop with a handle to protect your hands. Since the rims of glasses and cups, the bowls of teaspoons and the tines of forks have been in the mouth, they should be given special attention in washing and scalding. Wash the glasses first. Place them in the drying rack, pour clean scalding water over them, dry them quickly with a clean towel, if necessary, and put them away.

After the glasses are out of the way, wash other dishes in whatever order you prefer, reserving the pots and pans for the last. Empty the dishwater and make a clean suds as often as it becomes greasy and dirty.

All food scraps should be removed from the kitchen after each meal to avoid attracting insects.

Social Situation

The situation: Friends have dropped in to spend an evening in conversation—and you want to be a thoughtful, adequate hostess. How would you act?

Wrong way: Keep jumping up to empty ash trays, to ask "Are you comfortable?" and to open or close windows.

Right way: Relax and keep the conversation going, not interrupting it by getting out of your own chair unless it is absolutely necessary. (The anxious hostess who keeps worrying about her guests and buzzing around to make them comfortable only succeeds in distracting them and making them ill-at-ease.)

Says Mr. Gold Seal

"I'm in there punching for Morale and Victory!"

"My physique may not be particularly impressive but in my own sphere of action I'm rated tops with both dealer and public who know me as the Congoleum Trade Mark. I've always stood for floor covering quality and value, factors that are more important today than ever, now that replacements are so hard to come by. The care that has always gone into the making of the goods I identify, is intensified as we do our modest bit for morale and victory by providing that touch of colourful brightness—fine, easy-to-clean, budget-saving Congoleum floors—that make any home a happier place to live in. And on top of that, we at Congoleum are happy that our complete machine-shop facilities have been devoted to specialized war production ever since the outbreak of hostilities."

HOW TO HELP

MR. GOLD SEAL MAKE GOOD

You can get added wear out of your Congoleum floors with very little effort. Brush and mop them regularly and renew the brightness of their surface with an occasional waxing. Make sure too, that the floor underneath is smooth and free from crevices or knobs. If it's a rug, move it every few months to "spread" the traffic. Yes, a little care will pay big dividends.

Joe Petsche, wounded Yugoslavian Bluenose Squadron mid-upper gunner who won the D.F.M. on his first trip, paying tribute to the mastery manner in which Sgt. William Wood, 1161 Old Esquimalt Road, took his big Halifax over the North Sea after a mine-laying job. A rain of cannon shell and machine gun bullets hit them and tore into the aircraft as a Nazi fighter came up underneath, unobserved and let the young Canadians have it.

Fire broke out. Flames and smoke crackled through the aircraft and centred close to the mid-upper position.

Petsche crawled to a fire extinguisher, started a desperate and finally successful campaign against the flames. The wireless operator came up as soon as possible to lend a hand. Petsche finally turned over the job to him, returning to his gun position as skipper Bill, sending the bomber into violent evasive action, fought to shake off the persistent Jerry who was weaving in for "the kill" that, thanks to Sgt. Petsche and the rest of the crew, didn't materialize.

Sgt. Montell R. McLaren, R.C.A.F., 723 Powderley Avenue, recently graduated as wireless air gunner from 8 B and G school, Lethbridge, Alta., it is announced by Western Air Command.

Lieut. Frank H. Whiting, 25, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. Whiting, 2183 Windsor Road, who was killed in action in Italy, May 23 last. Whiting joined the Seaforth Highlanders at the outbreak of war, arrived overseas in January, 1940. He returned to Canada in September, 1942, gained his commission at O.T.C., Gordon Head, January, 1943, returning overseas in September of that year.

F.O. Clayton S. Grant, R.C.A.F., now with Atlantic Transport Command, who spent his 21st birthday in North Africa. He was recently promoted from pilot officer. Clayton is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Grant, Highland Park, Langford, and formerly of Oyster River, V.I. He is the grandson of Maj. Fred and Mrs. Richardson, also of Langford. Native son of Victoria, Clayton was educated at the Willows School and Victoria High. He left Vic High to join the air force, gained his wings in the fall of last year at 7, S.F.T.S., Macleod, Alta., was posted to Patricia Bay before going overseas.

Sooke to Get Doctor

Sooke village and district without a doctor for many months, will shortly obtain the services of Dr. R. J. Patchett, it was announced today by Dr. G. F. Amyot, provincial health officer. Dr. Patchett has practised at Telegraph Creek and for a time was with the Department of Pensions and National Health.

Port Alice, thriving pulp and paper community on the northwest coast of Vancouver Island, without a doctor for two months, will also obtain a medical man. Dr. Amyot said, but his name cannot yet be announced.

Maj. Henderson Gives Soldiers Harmonica

Maj. Eric Henderson, who went overseas in 1940 with the 1st Bn., Canadian Scottish Regiment, seeing an appeal in Merimian Roundup Saturday for harmonicas for Scotties overseas, has donated the one he bought four years ago.

The harmonica has quite an interesting history. On the train going east some of the soldiers wanted to sing, but there was no accompaniment. So Maj. Henderson sent the porter shopping in Kamloops and he came back with a neat Homer, one of the last imported into this country from Germany.

The mouthorgan went to England with Maj. Henderson and amused numerous soldiers in camp. Now it is going back to England again.

Mrs. R. B. Harvey of the Scottish Auxiliary, who made the appeal, says the Scotties overseas could use any number of mouth-organs, for they are now almost impossible to obtain.

Legion Severely Criticizes 'Zombies'; Mackenzie Says Japs Must Not Return to B.C.

By TOM MERRIMAN

VANCOUVER—The term "zombies" as applied to men signed up for home defence only, was introduced for the first time to the Dominion convention of the Canadian Legion by Bert Pearson of Victoria Monday and adopted as a well-established description for draftees as if it had been in the language for years.

Verbal guns were fired on "zombies" for most of the afternoon, with the delegates' comments far more bitter than the final resolution indicated.

The description "zombies" was first used during discussion of a resolution which, as finally passed, recommended home leave as soon as possible for all service personnel who had been outside the territorial waters of Canada for three years.

NO H.D. LEAVE

P. R. Leighton, Duncan, also took part in the debate which indicated the main concern of the veterans was to word the resolution to make it perfectly clear that the proposed leave should not be granted to home defence draftees, including those who had served in Newfoundland and Labrador.

From that time, in discussion including home defence men and active service men. Invariably the home defence men were referred to as "zombies."

"One delegate waxed wrath because home defence men who served in Newfoundland and Labrador were permitted to wear the silver maple leaf—token of overseas service. 'It allows thousands of 'zombies' to masquerade as active service men,' he said.

"Zombies" also came up for discussion when a resolution was passed recommending disfranchisement of military service evaders. Some delegates unsuccessfully fought to widen the resolution to embrace all "zombies," all draft evaders, "legal and illegal" and any fit man who shirked fighting for his country if called upon in time of war.

EXPERIENCED DEBATORS

Victoria delegates to the convention represent some of the experienced debaters of a quarter of a century of work in soldiers' affairs. They have a place where they can readily catch the speaker's eye as the resolutions "come before the house, as they are placed directly in front of the speaker's platform.

Service ribbons the delegates are wearing show the Victoria men here as good a representation of fighting service as any delegation. Delegates from Victoria represent service in the army, navy and air force in the last war and service in the South African War.

Among them are Joe Witcomb of the City Hall staff, who wears Boer War ribbons and World War 1 ribbons for service in the navy, one of the Naval Veterans' delegates, and the Dominion representative of his organization; W. G. Stone, with several army service ribbons to his credit and now an officer in the Veterans' Guard Reserve; W. C. Hudson, president of Britannia Branch and a member of the Veterans' Guard; Bob Knight, veteran of many soldier conventions and newly-elected vice-president of the B.C. Command; Dr. Eric Boak, Len Woodhouse, reeve of Oak Bay; Glen Gill, secretary of the Pro Pats; Jim McCahill; S.

G. V. Cross, noting slackness in immigration laws in years gone by, proposed future immigrants be required to pass examinations and swear to live according to the laws of Canada.

Missing Airman Found MONTREAL (CP)—No. 3 Training Command, R.C.A.F., announced today that WO2 A. C. Murchie of Milltown, N.B., missing with four fellow crew members of an Anson training plane, "has been discovered alive on the coast of Newfoundland." No other details were given.

Although the B.C. convention indicated there are one or two British Columbians not in favor of the closed door to the Japanese policy which B.C. veterans are sponsoring, the applause from the B.C. section when Hon. Ian Mackenzie touched on the subject indicated they are considerably in the minority.

JAPS MUST GO

Mr. Mackenzie made his stand crystal clear. Slowly and deliberately he said, in speaking on after-the-war policy on the Japs:

"If I am then in public life, I shall not remain for 24 hours as a member of any government or supporter of any party which allows the Japanese back on our shores."

The British Columbia section led the applause which swept the hall and was sustained for several minutes before the minister could resume his speech.

For the rest of his speech, Mr. Mackenzie had the uninterrupted attention of the 500 delegates for an hour as he put to them their "bill of rights" and "bill of duties."

Legislation alone could not touch the real spirit of the young returning veterans, he said. They needed the confidence and hopefulness created by the inspiration of friends to help them readjust themselves when they returned from war. The Legion could make this its special mission and no other organization was more qualified for this mission.

After reviewing pension and rehabilitation legislation, Mr. Mackenzie also made another appeal to veterans.

"The Pension Act of Canada is the best act in the world today," he said. "We can improve it together where necessary. Don't tear it down. Let's build it up together. We want to build the future leaders in the public life of Canada will come from the ranks of veterans."

Cordial support for the proposal to make the pay and pensions of women in the services the same was indicated when the resolution is discussed by the applause that greeted Mr. Mackenzie's remark that he was in favor of this.

SEPARATE QUESTION

Les Scott was on his feet for an assurance that the Japanese question was not included in a resolution calling for an early pronouncement of government policy on internees, but would be given separate consideration. He was given an assurance the Japanese came under another resolution dealing with Japanese, Doukhobors, Mennonites and others.

Mr. Pearson discussed demobilization on a "first in, first out" principle, calling for clarification so there was no possibility of the "zombies" being first out to get the first jobs available. The resolution as passed made the point clear.

NO SEPARATE UNIT

Brig-Gen. Alex Ross of Yorkton, Sask., who succeeds Maj-Gen. J. A. Gunn of Toronto as president of "Canadian Legion War Services, Inc.," told delegates the organization cannot initiate any projects on its own as it must make a requisition to government officials who must approve any grant.

Gen. Ross said the war services organization cannot supply services requested by the Legion's branches and added the branches can amplify the work of the war services by considering treatment of all persons discharged from the services.

He described as "absolutely wrong" any reports that the war services was trying to "get away" from the Legion and establish its own organization. A resolution urging the federal government to prohibit any lockouts or strikes was declared out of order after A. E. Moore of Winnipeg, Dominion chairman, warned that interference in labor problems might lead to serious complications.

G. V. Cross, noting slackness in immigration laws in years gone by, proposed future immigrants be required to pass examinations and swear to live according to the laws of Canada.

Other approved resolutions urged:

That the Dominion government consider immediately the question of enemy aliens including prisoners of war and internees so that definite policy would be ready at cessation of hostilities.

That all prewar residents of Canada who left to join enemy services be refused re-entry and their property be confiscated. That efforts be made to obtain a minimum clothing allowance of $150 to discharged voluntary servicemen and women and that the grant be retroactive to Jan. 1, 1940.

That the allowance paid to a dependent parent be the same as for a wife and allowances for dependent brothers and sisters be the same as for dependent children.

That military service evaders and persons convicted of subversive actions should be disfranchised.

That a uniform discharge certificate be issued for members of all three services and that the certificate contain similar particulars as now are given in the certificates issued to members of the Royal Canadian Air Force;

IMMIGRANTS MUST FIGHT

A resolution asking federal officials to enlarge the cadet and physical training programs in secondary schools was referred back to the resolutions committee after A. C. Stewart of Yorkton, Sask., suggested the motion urge compulsory military training for all youths and that all immigrants be forced to agree before entering Canada that they will not ask for exemption from military training.

Delegates approved a motion by R. H. Engels of Camrose, Alta., that the convention appoint a committee to consider the affairs of veterans who took up homesteads under the land settlement scheme inaugurated after the First Great War. The committee will report to this convention.

TOTAL WAR

Delegates passed a resolution demanding the complete implementation of the Legion's "total war" policy "as supported by the plebiscite of 1942" which approved conscription for service anywhere.

The Legion's "total war" policy demands that "all persons called under the National Mobilization Resources Act shall be required to serve—anywhere. However, this specific phrase was deleted from the motion after some delegates complained "anywhere" was not specific enough.

A suggestion that the phrase "any active theatre of war" be substituted for "anywhere" was rejected when delegates decided the motion was comprehensive enough when it said the convention "reaffirms the Legion's policy of total war, of 1941, and demands its complete implementation, as supported by the plebiscite of 1942."

The resolution contended continuous, adequate reinforcements must be assured "particularly at this period of anticipated invasion and prospective heavy casualties," and that "there is in Canada a large trained force, mobilized under present policy, from active military service or essential industry."

To Urge Government Build Zeballos Plant

Provincial government will be urged, Wednesday by Vancouver business men, to build a hydro-electric plant in Zeballos Valley to serve the small steel plant planned there by Privateer Mining Company.

Alderman Jack Price, chairman of Vancouver's semi-public steel committee and other committee members will see Premier John Hart and Mines Minister Carson when they come to the capital.

By PETE SALLAWAY

ONE of the most prominent members of those great field lacrosse teams of Victoria back in the early 1920s answered the call to the great beyond Saturday, in the death of "Allie" McGregor. Member of two Mann Cup teams, McGregor also played on the Victoria club that was thrown together in a hurry and successfully defended its Canadian championship against the supposedly "hot" squad from New Westminster.

IT WAS the summer of 1918 that "Allie" first reached the heights in the lacrosse world, captaining the Coughlin Shipyard team of Vancouver to the Canadian title and possession of the Mann Cup. The following season he was a member of the Foundation Shipyard Club of Victoria that traveled to Winnipeg and again brought the Mann Cup west. In 1920 Victoria refused to turn the cup over to New Westminster and agreed to defend it in a sudden-death game here on Thanksgiving Day.

DESPITE the fact many of the players had not touched a stick for over two months and were badly out of condition, they stepped on the field and held the vaunted club from the banks of the Fraser to a 3 to 3 tie. Lester Patrick was the manager of the local team and several of the players created a sensation by electing to play in football shoes to give them better footing. The game was played on Oct. 19 on ground that was better suited to soccer than lacrosse. Other members of the local team that day were such former lacrosse greats as Boss and Johnny Johnson, Toots Plump, Cotton Brynjolfson, Joe Dakers, Sid Humber, Bob McKay and Cyril Baker. A real blood-thirsty affair, it was a familiar sight to see players stretched out cold on the field. Although only a youngster at the time, the game lives quite vividly in my memory.

BEFORE gaining fame as a lacrosse player, "Allie" established himself as a soccer player of note with the old North Wards and was a member of the North Ward intermediate basketball team that won a B.C. championship. Other members of that club were Johnny Johnson, Ted Menzies, Joe Dakers, Art Baines and Cotton Brynjolfson. McGregor made his final athletic appearance in an active role in that famous exhibition lacrosse match at Tacoma in the early 1920s when Victoria and Sidney teams played before over 50,000 paid admissions. The late Leonard Tait, one of the great supporters of lacrosse in this city, and Alex Stevens were in charge of the Victoria club.

FOLLOWING his retirement from the lacrosse field, McGregor took up baseball umpiring and during a long association with the Victoria senior league gained the reputation as one of the finest officials in amateur baseball on the coast. "Allie" was the finest "umps" we have ever watched when it came to handling a game by himself. He was one of those officials who always kept a game under control and his decisions were made with the speed that makes for confidence in an umpire. After giving up this work behind the plate McGregor still retained his interest in the game and was a frequent visitor to the ball park for feature attractions.

EVIDENCE that Victorians will turn out for a fight card was never better demonstrated than at the Armories Saturday night when the Rangers' show attracted a packed house. It was unfortunate that a lot of the zip was taken from the card by the non-appearance of LePetrie, R.C.A.F., for the semi-windup, and Jackie Turner, R.C.N., for a special event against Bobby Parker. In answering a certain amount of criticism over the failure of these lads to show, Charlie Burr, commanding officer of the Rangers, said today, "We have been advised that LePetrie received his draft call and for that reason was unable to make the trip. As far as Turner was concerned, he just didn't show up. The same held true for Ken Lindsay, who was supposed to have acted as a judge. After all, we were dealing with the services and there is a war on and it does not always work out that these boys can be certain of keeping engagements. However, I think it was a good show and nobody can say they didn't get their money's worth."

Major Baseball Round-up

90 Homers In Week

Major league pitchers took to the storm cellars today after counting up 90 home runs during the last seven days and noting the new menace to their trade in renovated Braves Field in Boston. Since president Bob Quinn moved the right field fence back 20 feet two weeks ago to help the left-handed hitters, 22 round-trippers have sprouted where only four grew before.

Fifty-one homers have been lifted into the New York Polo Grounds stands in the first seven weeks, almost half as many as were belted last season when 115 were recorded. Of the 51, exactly 38 were clouted in the Giants' two-week home stand against the western clubs.

Although New York Yankees no longer have their murderer's row of yore, 28 homers have been belted at the stadium, 14 each by the Yanks and the visitors. The fourth highest park in home run production is Briggs Stadium in Detroit where 21 have been authored.

Strangely enough, while the American League clubs have hammered 20 round trippers at Philadelphia's Shibe Park, the National League have been able to collect but seven, low for the circuit. Washington's spacious acres have yielded only three.

The hitters have found Sportsman's Park in St. Louis easy picking with a total of 33 homers but that represents everyday duty with both the Cards and Browns using the field.

As the clubs prepared to resume action after a one-day lay-off with two National League night games the senior circuit led in circuit clouts 150 to 137. The American League picks up tomorrow but the week's schedule is spotty with only 23 games in both leagues before the weekend.

By SYD THOMAS

TORONTO (CP)—The youth of Montreal are said to be getting more baseball-conscious, and turning away from the mushball paths. Al (Montreal Herald) Parsley reports. And the reason for this is not hard to find, he continues, but lies in the sudden ascension of Stan Beard, native of the Montreal district, to a post in the International League with Montreal Royals.

All along, it's been softball that appealed to the lads, but they are beginning to get the idea that, under present circumstances, there are grand opportunities in baseball for a willing youngster with a good pair of hands or a productive batting stance.

Since Beard gave that hometown-boys-makes-good complex to the Royals, interest has been seething among Montreal youngsters. A new league was formed in the Rosemont district, and enthusiasm has been mounting in the other leagues. So, even if Beard doesn't turn out to be a burning star in the league, he can feel well satisfied with his share in baseball because of the way he stimulated the game in Canada's big port city.

INCIDENTALLY:

The hey is on the bookies at Winnipeg tracks this season, Herb Manning reports in the Winnipeg Tribune. He says five of the plumpers' pals paid fines totalling $1,000 as authorities cracked down on their extraparamutual activities. . . Johnny Lifford, Saint John's aging but still game boxing star, seems to have taken a leaf from Tommy's book. Lifford has been crippling the title aspirations of younger and flatter boxers all along. His latest victory was over Ralph Walton, tough little negro scrapper from Montreal. . . Mike Rodden, former N.H.L. referee, football coach, and one-time sports editor of the old Toronto Globe, is handling the Kingston Whig-Standard sport page now, succeeding Bill Walsh. He is writing a column, "Highways of Sport," filled with reminiscences of old-time athletes and their doings.

Senior Fastballers In Action Tonight

Senior men's fastball teams will stage another doubleheader at the Athletic Park tonight, starting at 6.15. In the opener the Army will battle the Navy followed by a tilt between the league-leading Douglas Tire and R.C.A.F.

Brentwood Aces and K.V.'s chalked up victories in the C division last evening. The Aces took the measure of the Navy Sparkers, 6 to 2, and New Method Laundry fell before the smart playing of the clubmen, 10 to 2. In the only other fixture, Hudson's Bay Company girls noised out the Yarrows, 19 to 18.

Fight Ruled Draw

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—The Oklahoma City Athletic Commission Monday ruled the Buddy Scott-Lou Nova fight here last Friday night, awarded the latter a 10-round decision, was a draw.

The commission issued a statement in which it said it "is standing behind the judges if it appointed and correcting an error of the announcer."

One judge and the referee called the match a draw while the other judge awarded the bout to Nova. Since Nova won the most rounds when the score cards were taken collectively, the announcer awarded the bout to the Californian, Nova meets Scott again in Galveston June 20.

R.A.F. Footballers 'Drop In' for Game By Parachute Use

LONDON (CP)—It's been threatening to come for a long time—the transport of a foot ball team by air—and at last it has. It happened in the Midlands.

A score of R.A.F. men did it dropping in on the opposing team by parachute and then winning the game.

They were instructors at a northwest parachute training centre and had a game scheduled with a unit 100 miles away. They thought of going by train and then somebody suggested plane and parachute. That was enough.

Four thousand feet above the Midlands playing field one of the officers dropped out as a pathfinder. The carrier plane circled until he touched ground and gave the O.K. signal. Then the whole team toppled out of the carrier one after another.

"The drop itself was nothing," one of the parachuting footballers said. "We are jumping regularly. We took a ball with us and intended to try to pass it to each other as we went down but we were throwing it to each other in the aircraft and somebody dropped a pass and the ball went out through the jumping hole."

After the match the parachutists took off from a nearby air-drome and dropped out over their own station.

Playing for the winners were four well-known Rugby League men, P.O. Cliff Evans, Sgt. Ivor Owen and Dai Rees, all of Leeds and J. Eckersley of Oldham.

Oaklands Scores Lacrosse Victory

Opening game last night in the bantam division of the Greater Victoria Lacrosse Association saw Oaklands defeat Fairfield, 13 to 3.

Oaklands scored four in the first, three in the third and then fired home six goals in the last session, while Fairfield got three in the initial period and one each in the second and third.

The scorers for Oaklands were: Stewart 3, Green 2, Gallop 2, Ritchie 2, Robb, Bennett, Day and Geiser. Colton scored three goals for the losers and Moffat and Stewart got the others.

Tulachmore Winner Woodbine Handicap

TORONTO (CP)—Tulachmore, top-money winner in Canada last year, Monday captured major honors in the Marlboro Handicap, six furlongs feature of the closing day of the Thornecliffe Park race meet at Woodbine race track.

Tulachmore raced the fastest six furlongs of the season, 1:12 flat, to easily defeat six other highly-rated sprinters. He was three lengths ahead of Pacific Isle, who was one length in advance of Donedra. The winner paid $9.20 for a $2 straight ticket. Johnny Dewhurst rode Tulachmore.

The combined meetings of Dufferin Park and Long Beach begin Wednesday at Dufferin Park.

Blasting 15 solid base knocks, including three doubles, off four pitchers, R.C.A.F. Flyers brought an end to the Navy's undefeated record in the senior ball league last night with a surprising 12 to 4 triumph. It marked the second straight win for the airmen and boosted them into third place ahead of the Eagles.

Flyers had a lot of power in their bats and, in addition, played smart ball back of Bill Surphlis, who came up with his first pitching success of the campaign. Surphlis gave up eight safeties, but held the Navy in check except for the fourth and fifth innings when they got to him for two-run rallies. "He struck out three and walked a pair."

Lefty Pavluk, a southpaw, opened on the mound for the Navy, but the heavy bombardment got too much for him and he retired in the third after giving up four runs. Jimmy Crosato, a newcomer to these parts, took over and he was only good until the seventh, allowing five hits and three runs. Flashing a lot of speed but little control, Crosato got a big hand in the fourth by striking out the side with the bases populated. Johnson was the third finger to face the airmen, but after walking the first man, hitting the next and giving up two runs on a double by Surphlis, he was chased to the showers to be replaced by Frank Ball. The last-named finished the mound trick, being charged with five hits and two runs.

Watson, left fielder for the Flyers, paced their terrific hitting offensive with three for four. Blirk, third sacker, pounded out three for five and so did pitcher Surphlis.

TIED FOR TOP

League standings now find the Victoria Machinery Depot and Navy deadlocked for first position, each with three wins in four starts. Wednesday night the shipbuilders have a chance to take over all by themselves when they hook up with the Army, starting at 6.30.

Short score follows:

Navy	4	8	3
R.C.A.F.	12	15	1

Batteries—Pavluk, Crosato, Johnston, Ball and Sparrow; Surphlis and Switch.

Seek Union Rights For B.C. Employees

Support of the Victoria Labor Council was vouched Monday night for the B.C. Provincial Government Employees' Association in its efforts to secure full union rights.

The council decided to write to the Attorney-General demanding that P.C. 1003 be respected as far as the government employee's body was concerned.

During the meeting a committee was struck to prepare a brief on rehabilitation.

The council decided to urge the Workmen's Compensation Board to require provision of eye protectors for shipyard workers by the operating companies and to ask that full compensation be given in case of eye injuries. The action was taken following statements compensation could not be secured when protectors were not worn.

Protest was made against alleged discharges of Dock and Shipyard Workers' Union members who were reportedly released when they took Saturdays off after being informed Saturday afternoon was a holiday.

Safety-scaffolding will also be sought by the labor council, which named a committee to co-operate with Nanaimo miners seeking a survey of Nanaimo fields.

Other matters discussed included provision of duplicate lists of blood donors and amendment of tax regulations to exempt the first $1,000 of a single man's income and the first $1,800 for a married man.

National Film Board's offer of films was accepted.

15 Workers Injured In Navy Yard Crash

Thrown out of a truck at a naval establishment in Esquimalt late Monday, three civilian workmen were taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital for treatment and 12 others were sent home after receiving first aid treatment.

Those in hospital are M. McKeller, Langford, who suffered head injuries; J. D. Marshall, 419 Cecilia Road, lacerations of the legs, and A. Spencer, Colwood, fractured collar bone.

The truck was attempting to pass a navy truck with several empty trailers when the trailers began to sway from side to side and the truck carrying the workmen turned out to avoid collision, going into a ditch, witnesses said.

Percy Welch, Langford, civilian administration clerk, one of those in the truck, suffered severe bruises.

Justice Macfarlane Will Grant Wilby Habeas Corpus Writ

Intimation that he would grant the application for a writ of habeas corpus to free Ralph M. Wilby, alias Douglas Alexander Hume, wanted in New York City on 17 theft charges involving $275,984, was given in Supreme Court today by Mr. Justice A. D. Macfarlane.

Mr. Justice Macfarlane at the request of C. L. Harrison, counsel for New York State, granted an adjournment of the case to give time for the New York counsel to cite authorities upholding his argument that Wilby should be held in custody of Fred Hains and George Salayka, New York detectives, pending appeal by New York State.

W. H. M. Haldane, Wilby's counsel, said that Mr. Justice Macfarlane having rendered judgment the warrant of surrender was invalid, there was no jurisdiction to hold Wilby in custody.

While an appeal could be taken by New York State, His Lordship had no jurisdiction to order Wilby held, he contended.

Mr. Justice Macfarlane took the stand that the order of surrender issued by Justice Minister St. Laurent was not valid, having been issued before the first application for a writ of habeas corpus had been dismissed by Chief Justice Wendell B. Farris.

The order, Mr. Justice Macfarlane said, had been issued before the Minister of Justice had acquired jurisdiction in the case.

Wilby, former assistant treasurer for the William T. Knott Corp., New York City, operator of 15 Canadian and U.S. department stores, was arrested in a Victoria hotel March 12 by city detectives, acting for New York police. Before a New York grand jury, Wilby has been indicted on 17 grand larceny charges. He was committed for extradition by Judge H. H. Shandley here on April 11.

Municipal Officers Wind Up Conference

Members of the Municipal Officers' Association of B.C., prepared today for their final wind-up banquet at the Empress Hotel following sessions in which they canvassed the field of municipal affairs generally, and elected leaders for the coming year.

Registration of 60 delegates made the conference the largest on record.

A. H. Thomsett, senior ration officer at Vancouver, spoke today on activities of the ration authorities, and A. T. Dalton, Vancouver city assessor, discussed various features of assessment work.

Walter S. Woods, associate deputy minister in the Rehabilitation Branch, Department of Pensions and National Health, spoke on rehabilitation matters, with particular reference to municipal relations.

Monday evening, J. P. Hogg, K.C., legislative counsel, spoke on municipal law, sketching its history from the time of the English act of 1835 establishing powers of local government to the present. He referred to the Municipal Act, giving an outline of the duties and powers of municipal councils.

W. A. Greene, Saanich, addressed the conference on "Budget Preparation," analyzing revenue sources and discussing expenditure control.

"Discussions followed the different talks.

At tonight's banquet in the Empress Hotel, Hon. Herbert Anscomb, Minister of Municipal Affairs, will preside.

No Jubilation On D-Day People Confident of Victory

"Turn aside, all you that pass by, this is D-Day."

With those words written on a notice and pinned to the door of his church, Rev. George Biddle struck the keynote of Victoria's reaction to the announcement that Allied troops had landed on the coast of German-held France.

From the subdued "Well, this is it!" of the grey-haired man who stood at the Post Office at 8 this morning to the declarations of ministers, men and women have accepted D-Day with that serenity born of long waiting.

As many dropped into their churches, prayer and a feeling of relief from suspense, rather than jubilation, filled their hearts. All morning crowds milled before the bulletin boards at the Times. In quiet residential lanes and on busy street corners, men and women discussed the invasion. In offices, stores and at lunch counters, could be heard "Well, at last it's come."

BREATHING EASIER
"It is a solemn day and the tired world is breathing deeper. They have confidence in victory but know that a great price will be paid," said Mr. Biddle, pastor of St. John's Church and president of the Victoria Canadian Club.

Before commencing their business this morning, members of the Municipal Officers' Association of B.C. at their annual conference in the Parliament Buildings, stood for a minute's silence.

S. Leslie Brice, secretary, suggested a silent tribute for the men engaged in the invasion.

CONCERN FOR MEN'S SAFETY

"It is only natural," said Premier John Hart, "that there should be elation over the news of the invasion and the early reports of its initial successes. These are tragic days and any feeling of excitement that we may have must necessarily be tempered by our consideration and concern for the safety and welfare of those gallant men and women who are risking their lives for the great cause in which the United Nations are fighting. We have confidence in our leaders and the men and women who serve so valiantly under them.

"Let us offer up our prayers for their protection."

'Fill Thinned Ranks' Legion Demands

By TOM MERRIMAN
VANCOUVER, B.C. — Scheduled business of the Canadian Legion convention was brushed aside today to offer prayers for success of the invasion and to call on Ottawa to see that the ranks of Canadian forces, as they are thinned from the sacrifices that must be made, will be filled.

As the 500 delegates assembled they stood in silence while a prayer was offered. Then President Alex Walker read a telegram which he had sent to Prime Minister King which referred to "this most inspiring moment in the world's history when the fate of Christian civilization for 1,000 years to come is being decided."

The telegram expressed confidence of victory with God's help but this victory could only come with the sacrifice of thousands of Canadian lives. It called on the government to see that the ranks filled by the men in Canada trained for the purpose and to implement the Canadian people's plebiscite for total war.

Cheers, which followed reading of the invasion, Boeing Aircraft of Canada Ltd., Plant No. 6, at Victoria, halted to observe a two minutes silence this afternoon and the night shift will observe one this evening, John Crawford, personal manager, said.

A radio was brought in where the employees have their noon meal so that the women workers, many of whom have husbands and brothers serving overseas, might get the latest news.

Short services were held in all city schools today to impress upon the pupils the importance of the day, and hymns and prayers were offered.

C. A. Mudge, manager of the local office of the National Selective Service, said that with a number of ex-servicemen from the present war on his staff, who have pals overseas, the invasion was uppermost in their thoughts.

"I am delighted to hear that it has come at last, for there is a feeling of relief from tension," he said.

"It has been expected for a long time and looks all right to me," was the comment of Weatherman William Burton.

STUDYING MAP
At the city detectives' office, a map of France was being studied this morning with care.

"We've been waiting for it so long, I think everybody in Esquimalt is taking news of the invasion calmly. Of course it is grand news," said G. H. Pullen, municipal clerk, today, as he said there were many Esquimalt families with boys in the navy.

A. E. (Chick) Holmes, Empress Hotel porter and veteran of the first World War, commented: "There wouldn't be any sunshine over there with an umbrella of 11,000 planes."

Said William Stapleton, Canadian National passenger agent, Vancouver: "It's marvelous. It happened just the way I thought it would. Everybody, naturally, is thrilled today."

A woman worker with the National Housing Registry, who has a son overseas, merely remarked: "I just felt numb."

Some naval personnel at Victoria expressed disappointment that they were "not in on the show."

William Reader, supervising inspector for Boeing's and a veteran of the last war, who served with the 28th Battalion, said: "I have the greatest confidence in Generals Eisenhower and Montgomery, and feel that consolidating the peninsula of Normandy is a basis for assured success." of telegram, were taken as unanimous endorsement.

The convention paused to hear the broadcast of the King's speech.

VANCOUVER—Hundreds who have entered the federal civil service in such places as Esquimalt dockyard and Wartime offices that may be retained after the war and other branches, will find themselves out of jobs unless they are ex-servicemen, if recommendations of the Dominion convention of Canadian Legion are implemented.

A page of resolutions on the subject is aimed to continue soldier preference in civil service for World War One veterans to World War Two veterans and asks all temporary positions in the civil service not occupied by ex-servicemen or women to be made vacant and open for competition within two years of the end of the war. Rigid application of the veterans' preference with age no deterrent, is sought, as well as seven days' notice to Legion representatives of examinations. To create vacancies in the civil service retirement of men at 60 and women at 55 is recommended.

The man or woman who wishes to complete university education may do so, to the equivalent of his time in the service and if he is thought to be an exceptional student he can be carried for three years or even through a post graduate course.

"The university student," he said, "must be prepared to start his course within 15 months of his discharge, which gives him sufficient time to complete high school." It is hoped in this way that many brilliant students, otherwise unknown, will be given a chance to make a place for themselves in the world, said Mr. Wood.

The department of pensions has made it possible for a man to be reinstated in his old job (if not a temporary employee prior to enlistment) at the same salary as before. He is also credited with unemployment insurance during his time in the service. Preference in civil service is given to those who served out of Canada and men who have been disabled in Canada.

The department has asked the three services to centralize their discharges so a member of the rehabilitation committee can be on hand to interview the man and also a doctor to check him for any medical treatment needed.

"At this time," said the speaker, "rehabilitation is discussed and plans for the man for his future."

Chimes Play Hymns At Noon D-Day

St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church chimes rang out during the noon hour. The invasion day program was given by the organist, C. C. Warren. He played hymns and sacred music for half an hour. People on the street went into the church, where they spent a few minutes in meditation listening to the chimes and organ music.

Appropriate hymns heard were: "Fight the Good Fight," "Unto the Hills," "Eternal Father Strong to Save," and "Onward Christian Soldiers."

Jack Maunder Here

Jack Maunder, Canadian Pacific press representative, Montreal, accompanied by Mrs. Maunder, is at the Empress Hotel today. R. J. O'Leary, C.P.R. press representative, Vancouver, crossed the gulf with Mr. and Mrs. Maunder.

Mr. Maunder, who has been with the C.P.R. press department for the past two years, was formerly a member of the Ottawa Journal staff.

Churches Open For Prayers; Service Tonight

A united service of intercession, with prayers for the men of the Allied Armies who are now invading France, will be held in Christ Church Cathedral tonight and, as ministers of all congregations arranged for services this evening and tomorrow, doors of the city's churches were thrown open to the public on the occasion of D-Day.

Bishop H. E. Sexton will conduct the service at the Cathedral at 8, assisted by representative ministers, and an address will be given by Dr. A. E. Whitehouse, pastor of Metropolitan United Church.

Special services will include celebrations of Holy Communion at 7.30 and 10.30, with intercession services at 12 noon and 5.30 and a service of hymns and prayers at 8 in the evening.

At St. Andrew's Cathedral, special prayers were offered this morning following the masses and Bishop John C. Cody announced that prayers and services would be held Wednesday afternoon and evening.

On the occasion of D-Day a collection will be taken to help the Pope with his relief work among refugees, Bishop Cody said. The work begun at the start of the war has continued and grown, with resources considerably depleted at the present time. It will be the first general collection for the Pope's Relief Fund and will be taken up June 18.

United Churches of Victoria will meet in Metropolitan Church Wednesday night at 8, and an invitation has been issued to all other communions to attend. Dr. Hugh McLeod will give the address and Dr. Whitehouse will conduct the service, assisted by all other ministers.

Major Roy McCaughey of the Salvation Army, whose term as president of the Ministerial Association expired Monday, said that the Citadel would be open and prayer and intercession will be held tonight at 8, under auspices of the Army, in Victoria West Hall, at Catherine and Edward Streets.

Establishment Of Service People Key To Rehabilitation

"The keystone to rehabilitation plans in Canada is the establishment of service people directly following discharge," said W. S. Wood, associate deputy minister of Pensions and National Health, speaking to members of the Welcome Club at a meeting today.

"This re-establishment," said Mr. Wood, "provides for those who are out of work in between the time they have left the service and the time the job which they are going to take at a certain date." It assists the person who is equipped for a job and is having a struggle to find a vacancy in that type of work. A single man gets $60 and married man $70. Men can be settled on farms with land and equipment and receive the same pension and allowances for children numbering up to six, as they did when in the service.

In vocational training, said Mr. Wood, men and women receive a pension of $60 and $80 and a chance to make themselves proficient in any vocation suitable to their ability.

These pensions are payable for a period equivalent to a man's service up to 12 months, and in the case of vocational training, to the end of the course.

The man or woman who wishes to complete university education may do so, to the equivalent of his time in the service and if he is thought to be an exceptional student he can be carried for three years or even through a post graduate course.

"The university student," he said, "must be prepared to start his course within 15 months of his discharge, which gives him sufficient time to complete high school." It is hoped in this way that many brilliant students, otherwise unknown, will be given a chance to make a place for themselves in the world, said Mr. Wood.

He is also credited with unemployment insurance during his time in the service. Preference in civil service is given to those who served out of Canada and men who have been disabled in Canada.

The department has asked the three services to centralize their discharges so a member of the rehabilitation committee can be on hand to interview the man and also a doctor to check him for any medical treatment needed.

"At this time," said the speaker, "rehabilitation is discussed and plans for the man for his future."

Greta Garbo Invited To Make Picture Here

Greta Garbo, reportedly interested in production of a film story based on the exploits of the Norwegian merchant marine, has been invited by the provincial Department of Trade and Industry to make her picture on Vancouver Island, E. G. Rowe-bottom, deputy minister, said today.

Following announcement that Miss Garbo might select a B.C. locale for her work, suitable literature and photographs were forwarded by the provincial tourist bureau to the star.

It was believed she might avail herself of scenic facilities selected here by the Lester Cowan company which produced "The Commandos Strike at Dawn" in and around Victoria in 1942.

Italy Invited By Roosevelt To Aid Peace

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Roosevelt Monday hailed the fall of Rome as the first Axis capital to be liberated by the Allies, but cautioned that the ultimate victory over Germany "still lies some distance ahead."

"That distance will be covered in due time—have no fear of that," the President said in a radio broadcast. "But it will be tough and it will be costly."

The President welcomed the fall of the Eternal City at the opening of his address with these words, "One up and two to go!"

He continued, however, that Germany has not yet been driven to surrender and observed: "Germany has not yet been driven to the point where she will be unable to recommence world conquest a generation hence."

INVITATION
The President extended to Italy the invitation to help in establishing a lasting peace and said, "All the other nations opposed to Fascism and Nazism should help give Italy a chance."

"The Germans, after years of domination in Rome, left the people in the Eternal City on the verge of starvation. We and the British will do everything we can to bring them relief."

We have already begun to save the lives of the men, women and children of Rome."

The Italian people "are capable of self-government," Mr. Roosevelt continued. "We do not lose sight of their virtues as a peace-loving nation."

"Speaking of the military operations still to come in Europe, the President said: "We shall have to push through a long period of greater effort and fiercer fighting before we get into Germany itself. The Germans have retreated thousands of miles, all the way from the gates of Cairo, through Libya and Tunisia and Sicily and southern Italy."

"They have suffered heavy losses, but not great enough yet to cause collapse."

In Italy, the President said, the people had lived so long "under the corrupt rule of Mussolini that, in spite of the tinsel at the top, their economic condition had grown steadily worse. Our troops have found starvation, malnutrition, disease, a deteriorating education and lowered public health—all byproducts of the Fascist misrule."

"The task of the Allies in occupation has been stupendous," he continued. "We have had to start at the very bottom, assisting local governments to reform on democratic lines."

"We have had to give them bread to replace that which was stolen out of their mouths by the Germans. We have had to make it possible for the Italians to raise and use their own local crops. We have to help them cleanse their schools of Fascist trappings."

Some people, he said, may think of the financial cost of liberating Italy, but he termed it a "form of relief."

"We hope," he added, "that this relief will be an investment for the future—an investment that will pay dividends by eliminating Fascism and ending another Italian desire to start another war of aggression."

The President paid tribute to all the Allied troops who participated in the Italian campaign.

"I extend the congratulations and thanks of the American people," he said, "to Gen. Alexander, who has been in command of the fighting forces of Empire and Allied troops."

"The American and British armies—who bore the burdens of battle—found at their sides our own North American neighbors, the gallant Canadians," he said. "The fighting New Zealanders from the far south Pacific, the courageous French and the French Moroccans, the South Africans, the Poles and the East Indians—all of them fought with us on the bloody approaches to Rome."

THE NAVY WAY SETS FAST COMEDY PACE

Setting a fast pace for comedy, action and romance, Paramount's "The Navy Way," currently at the Dominion Theatre, promises moviegoers a solid evening of entertainment.

Describing the training of recruits at the Great Lakes Naval Training Station, the film gives a factual account of the various phases undergone by the trainees before graduation. Playing in the featured roles are Bob Lowery, Jean Parker, Bill Henry and Roscoe Karns. All four, it is said, turn in convincing performances, the three males as raw recruits facing their boot training and Miss Parker as a pretty Wave with a pharmacist's rating.

There are dramatic moments in "The Navy Way" which tend to keep the customers on edge as Lowery rescues his buddy from an overturned boat, knocks out his opponent in a prize fight to help win the pennant for his company and leads all the trainees to the tape in a thrilling obstacle race.

One of the most spectacular dream sequences ever filmed is shown in "Up in Arms," Samuel Goldwyn's new technology tune-film for R.K.O. Radio. Danny Kaye, famous stage comic, is starred in the gay story of a goofy draftee and his troubles, now being shown at the Capitol Theatre.

As "Ralph Bowman," John Archer came to the film capital as a "Gateway to Hollywood" contest winner. He is currently cast opposite Jean Parker in Republic's "Hi Neighbor," which is now at the Rio.

Playing in the featured roles are Bob Lowery, Jean Parker, Bill Henry and Roscoe Karns. All four, it is said, turn in convincing performances, the three males as raw recruits facing their boot training and Miss Parker as a pretty Wave with a pharmacist's rating.

There are dramatic moments in "The Navy Way" which tend to keep the customers on edge as Lowery rescues his buddy from an overturned boat, knocks out his opponent in a prize fight to help win the pennant for his company and leads all the trainees to the tape in a thrilling obstacle race.

One of the most spectacular dream sequences ever filmed is shown in "Up in Arms," Samuel Goldwyn's new technology tune-film for R.K.O. Radio. Danny Kaye, famous stage comic, is starred in the gay story of a goofy draftee and his troubles, now being shown at the Capitol Theatre.

As "Ralph Bowman," John Archer came to the film capital as a "Gateway to Hollywood" contest winner. He is currently cast opposite Jean Parker in Republic's "Hi Neighbor," which is now at the Rio.

11,000 Planes, 4,000 Ships In Invasion of French Shores

Growth and Decline Of Hitler Germany

Prewar Germany, before Austrian "anschluss" and annexation of Czechoslovakia's Sudeten area in accordance with Munich agreement.

Six months after Munich and "peace in our time," Reich absorbs Austria; Hitler announces, "Czechoslovakia no longer exists."

Poland invaded, surrenders in 26 days; Russia shares in partition, occupying eastern Poland.

Denmark, Norway, Luxembourg, Belgium, Netherlands, France all fall under blitzkrieg; Italy makes "stab-in-the-back" entry.

Holding of Balkans by conquest or alliance, Hitler invades Russia, June 22; on Oct. 3 declares Russia "broken . . . never to rise."

Russian drive climaxed with Germans at gates of Leningrad, Moscow, Stalingrad. Axis conquest extended to Africa.

'What a Plan' for Attack Churchill Tells Commons

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Churchill told a cheering House of Commons today that the Allied liberating assault upon Hitler's European stronghold was "proceeding according to plan—and what a plan!"

In tones of confidence he reported that the Allied forces had been transported across the Channel to the shores of France by "an immense armada" of 4,000 ships with several thousand smaller craft — "probably the greatest fleet ever assembled."

Mass air-borne landings also have been successfully effected behind the enemy's lines, he said. "There are already hopes that actual tactical surprise has been attained," he continued, "and we hope to furnish the enemy with a succession of surprises, during the course of the fighting."

"The battle which is now beginning will grow constantly in scale and in intensity for many weeks to come and I shall not attempt to speculate upon its course."

"The landings on the beaches are proceeding at various points at the present time," Mr. Churchill said.

"The fire of shore batteries has been largely quelled."

He said that "obstacles which were constructed in the sea have not proved so difficult as was apprehended."

"So far," he said, "the commanders who are engaged report that everything is proceeding according to plan."

"And what a plan!" he declared.

Mr. Churchill said the vast operation was "undoubtedly the most complicated and difficult which has ever occurred."

To cheer by members, Mr. Churchill took "formal cognizance of the liberation of Rome," and added:

"American and other forces of the 5th Army broke through the enemy's last lines and entered Rome, where Allied troops have been received with joy by the population."

"This entry and liberation of Rome means that we shall have power to defend it from hostile air attacks and deliver it from the famine with which it was threatened."

Britain's war leader paid high tribute both to Gen. Sir Harold Alexander and Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark in Italy and said: "Complete unity prevails throughout the Allied armies . . . there is complete confidence in the supreme commander, Gen. Eisenhower, and his lieutenants and also in the commander of the expeditionary force, Gen. Montgomery."

In discussing the Italian campaign, where he said the Allied forces "with the Americans in the van are driving ahead northwards in relentless pursuit of the enemy," Mr. Churchill said it was hoped that the 20,000 prisoners already taken would be followed by further captures in the near future.

Of the new European operation, Mr. Churchill said "this great new front will be pursued with the utmost resolution, both by the commanders and the United States and British governments whom they serve."

In response to a question he told the House that certainly in the early part of the battle he would endeavor to keep the House fully informed.

"It may be," he added, "that I shall ask their indulgence to press myself upon them before we rise tonight."

There was grim news as well as good in Mr. Churchill's address. In discussing the battle of the Anzio beachhead in Italy, which was established last January and held against heavy German counterattacks, he said the Allies lost about 20,000 men, and the Germans 25,000.

But the Anzio landing had in the end borne good fruit by forcing Hitler to send south of Rome eight or nine divisions "which he might well have needed elsewhere," he added.

Other British aircraft attacked the northwestern German railroad city of Gensabrock without loss.

The stunning aerial bombardment fell on the Normandy landing beaches as the first phases of the co-ordinated assault began.

There was a complete cloud cover over some of the R.A.F. coastal targets during the night, but the Air Ministry said it was no obstacle to the well-trained Pathfinder crews.

The R.A.F. began to attack the coastal targets in earnest May 7, in undertaking one of its most difficult assignments. The targets were small and well protected. They had to be hit at night.

British Bombers Blast Beaches, Normandy Coast

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, Allied Expeditionary Force (AP) — In a blasting herald to the invasion, the British bomber command sent more than 1,300 of its biggest armadas roaring across the Channel Monday night and early today in the heaviest aerial attack ever aimed at German batteries along the French coast.

Ten attacks were executed between 11.30 p.m. and sunrise, each with 100 or more of the heavy bombers.

The latest victory was the third recent success against enemy submarines announced in a week by Mr. Macdonald, all three actions having occurred in the north Atlantic. H.M.C.S. Waskeieu made the first kill, and the second was scored by a group of Canadian ships, when H.M.C.S. Chilliwack and H.M.C.S. St. Catharines played the major role.

(Swansea, Waskeieu and St. Catharines were all built at Yarrow, Victoria and commissioned at Esquimalt.)

The minister said a number of prisoners were picked up by the three ships after the U-boat was destroyed in the latest encounter. The sub's captain and fire lieutenant were killed when one of St. Laurent's 4.7-inch shells crashed through the conning tower early in the action.

Six days before the action St. Laurent took Regina in tow after a line had fouled her propeller. Next day a tug took Regina safely into port.

Two days later St. Laurent was freed from the convoy she was shepherding and sent to the aid of a Swedish merchant ship in whose holds were raging fires which the crew regarded as uncontrollable. Cmdr. Stephen succeeded in getting his fire and salvage parties aboard the merchantman, and they fought the flames for two days. When they were finally quelled, St. Laurent went off to join the convoy with "Several advanced islands off the coast aroused the particular interest of the invaders and they were the first points where they established a foothold."

"Meantime, numerous landings were made all along the coast between the mouth of the Seine and the northern shores of Normandy, both from the air and from the sea."

"More concentrations of landing craft have been observed farther to the north as far as the Channel and were fought before going into action."

Swansea, Victoria Frigate, In On Sub Killing

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian destroyer St. Laurent, assisted by the Victoria-built frigate H.M.C.S. Swansea and H.M.S. Forester sank a U-boat with depth charges and gunfire as the climax to a passage during which St. Laurent took the Canadian corvette Regina in tow and quenched raging fires in the holds of a Sweden merchant ship, Navy Minister Macdonald announces.

(St. Laurent was based at Esquimalt before the war.)

Two of the Royal Canadian Navy's most-decorated commanding officers took part in this latest surface encounter. They were Lt. Cmdr. G. H. Stephen, O.B.E., D.S.C., of Halifax, aboard St. Laurent, and Cmdr. C. A. King, D.S.O., D.S.C., United States Legion of Merit, of Oliver and Victoria, commanding Swansea.

Forester was under command of Lt. Cmdr. J. A. Burnett, D.S.C., of Channel Islands.

St. Laurent "rode herd" on the U-boat so successfully that members of her crew lined the quarterdeck guard rails firing pistols and hurling empty shell cases as well as other bric-a-brac at the submarine.

The latest victory was the third recent success against enemy submarines announced in a week by Mr. Macdonald, all three actions having occurred in the north Atlantic. H.M.C.S.
